any data, such as get, list, and aggregated list methods.

NEW QUESTION: 3
A security administrator wants to prevent sensitive data residing on corporate laptops and desktops from leaking outside of the corporate network. The company has already implemented full-disk encryption and has disabled all peripheral devices on its desktops and laptops. Which of the following additional controls MUST be implemented to minimize the risk of data leakage? (Select TWO).
A. Strong authentication should be implemented via external biometric devices.
B. Full-tunnel VPN should be required for all network communication.
C. Full-drive file hashing should be implemented with hashes stored on separate storage.
D. A full-system backup should be implemented to a third-party provider with strong encryption for data in transit.
E. A DLP gateway should be installed at the company border.
F. Split-tunnel VPN should be enforced when transferring sensitive data.
Answer: B,E

Explanation:
Web mail, Instant Messaging and personal networking sites are some of the most common means by which corporate data is leaked.
Data loss prevention (DLP) is a strategy for making sure that end users do not send sensitive or critical information outside the corporate network. The term is also used to describe software products that help a network administrator control what data end users can transfer.
DLP software products use business rules to classify and protect confidential and critical information so that unauthorized end users cannot accidentally or maliciously share data whose disclosure could put the organization at risk. For example, if an employee tried to forward a business email outside the corporate domain or upload a corporate file to a consumer cloud storage service like Dropbox, the employee would be denied permission.
Full-tunnel VPN should be required for all network communication. This will ensure that all data transmitted over the network is encrypted which would prevent a malicious user accessing the data by using packet sniffing.

NEW QUESTION: 4
