NEW QUESTION: 3

A 5-year variable rate note issued by a BAA-rated issuer resets its coupon rate to 6-month LIBOR + .0075. At issuance, terms of the contract were determined so the issue would be priced at par. Three years after issue, credit conditions have changed and credit spreads have widened, i.e., the credit premiums charged lower credit quality borrowers are greater than during previous market conditions. In this new market environment:

- A. the price of the variable rate note will be less than par
- B. the price of the variable rate note will be greater than par
- C. the price of the variable rate note will equal par

Answer: A

Explanation:

The margin compensates the note owner for the credit risk associated with the issuer. If this credit risk now requires a greater premium, the fixed margin will reduce the value of the note.

NEW QUESTION: 4

Note: This question is part of a series of questions that use the same scenario. For your convenience, the scenario is repeated in each question. Each question presents a different goal and answer choices, but the text of the scenario is the same in each question in this series.

Start of repeated scenario.

You have six workbook queries that each extracts a table from a Microsoft Azure SQL database. The tables are loaded to the data model, but the data is not loaded to any worksheets. The data model is shown in the exhibit. (Click the Exhibit button.)

Exhibit:

Your company has 100 product subcategories and more than 10,000 products.

End of repeated scenario.

You need to create a chart as shown in the following exhibit.

Which type of chart should you use?

- A. combo

- B. clustered column
- C. stacked column
- D. Line with markers
